St. John Fisher holds Justinian Order luncheon

Lt. Gov. Robert J. Duffy was the keynote speaker last Friday for the 10th annual luncheon of the Justinian Order of St. John Fisher College.

Duffy spoke about accomplishments in the administration of Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo. Duffy, who served as Rochester’s mayor before becoming lieutenant governor, was presented with a framed print of St. John Fisher by College President Donald E. Bain, who introduced him.

The event, at the Rochester Plaza Hotel, was attended by dozens of judges, attorneys, other law professionals and business and civic leaders.

The Justinian Order of St. John Fisher College is an academic and legal society intended to create collegiality among Fisher graduates professionally involved in the law. It is composed of more than 400 judges and attorneys, all of whom are graduates of the college.

— Photos by Vasily Baziuk
Dr. Donald E. Bain shakes hands with the Hon. Francis Affronti. Joining them is Lt. Gov. Robert J. Duffy.

Meagan Mahar and Christian Valentino.

Lawrence Andolina and David Veniskey.

The Hon. Gail A. Donofrio.